+	Barry Allen was a member of Wes Dakus and the Rebels from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. Records were issued under Wes Dakus' name and under the names of various members of the band. Barry was something of a teen star in the mid-sixties and had several Canadian hits, the biggest being 'Lovedrops'. These are the liner notes from his 'Goin' Places' album (subtitled 'The debut album by Canada's fast rising young star'): Get set for an exciting session with this great debut album! Barry Allen was voted 'Canada's most promising male vocalist' by readers of Canada's music paper R.P.M. in the 1966 poll - and on his album Barry demonstrates just why he won this honour and why he is a big bet to be named Top Male Vocalist in the next awards! etc. etc. Album produced by Norm Petty.

Album title	Hell on Earth			Recorded 1983
Label	Bootleg		Cat.nr.	Released 1983
+	Bootleg. Appears also on 'Fuck Christmas'. At the beginning the lead singer, Greg Gaffin, says: 'Ok, uh, here's one we wrote, oh, about a year ago, it's called Louie Louie'. Then the songs starts and he goes 'No, really, I wrote this', and he starts singing, stops and says 'Any of you guys could sing this'.The the rest of the song is sung, apparently, by a random group of extremely non-musical punks with enough gumption to jump onto the stage and yell into the mike. They don't know the words. Truly a classic version of the song. There must be another bootleg-EP containing four covers, Led Zep's 'Rock 'n' Roll, Riding The Storm Out from REO Speewagon, 'Johnny Be Good' by Chuck Berry and 'Louie Louie'. The cover says: 'Recorded live at the Skylight Club, Los Angeles, 3/31/83 except Riding The Storm Out, recorded live at the Olympic Auditorium, 1984.

+	Lead vocal by Mike Love. Album re-released with fewer songs as 'Fun Fun Fun' on Capitol SN-16018. Louie Louie also included on lots of other Beach Boys compilation albums. Version stays close to Richard Berry's original. From the liner notes on the 'Shutdown 2' CD-release: 'In 1990, Louie Louie is considered to be a garage band classic, but when the Beach Boys recorded it, they were just covering a recent hit that they liked. It may be one of the only versions ever of Louie Louie on which you can understand the lyrics.'

+	German band, not to be mixed up with their Swedish namesakes (later to be known as the Namelovers). Most likely an anonymous studio band who tried to earn some extra bucks. This is their only release, an all-cover album amongst which 'Farmer John', 'Long Tall Sally', 'Do Wah Diddy' and 'It's All Over Now'. On the album 'Louie Louie' is credited to Chuck Berry. Liner notes: 'Hallo Beat-Fans! Mit dieser LP liefern wir Euch eine Zusammenfassung der schönsten und beliebtesten Songs. Die Aufnahmen haben uns persönlich sehr viel Freude bereitet, was sich auch in der zu spürenden belebten Atmosphäre widerspiegelt. Wir sind überzeugt, daß es uns gelungen ist, Euch eine gute Unterhaltung und viele 'happy hours' gebracht zu haben. Wir freuen uns schon jetzt auf ein persönliches Zusammentreffen mit Euch und wünschen Euch recht viel Freude mit unserer Musik. Herzlichst, Eure Beatchers.'

+	From a live bootleg album with very rare covers recorded on various occasions somewhere between 1970-1993. The date is not exactly clear but the following excerpt from a Deadhead website could give some clue. "The Grateful Dead introduced "Louie, Louie" in the second set at the Hartford Civic Center April 5, 1988, with three- (or was it four-) part harmony on the choruses and Brent Mydland singing the verses. I heard Richard Berry sing "Louie, Louie" a couple of years ago at the Sweetwater in Mill Valley with a band that included Ry Cooder on guitar. Berry's version is slower, swingin'er, downright romantic; the version Brent and the boys played was more like Richard Berry than the Kingsmen. Louie, Louie" only appeared a few more times in 1988 - the last one was at Madison Square Garden on September 20 (thanks, Mal) - possibly because the band started working on new songs of their own right after that.

+	Iggy Pop's very first band when he still was a drummer. Re-released on LP in 1998 on Norton Records, ED-251. From the liner notes: 'Louie Louie' was Iggy's moment in the spotlight as an Iguana. It's the only time he sang lead. He also starts it out with his own style intro. We used to turn off the mike when he sang the infamous version of the lyrics in case the audience couldn't handle it. It think we talked him out of it for this taping. You be the judge. The saxophone played along with the melody to give him the help we thought he needed.

Song title	Louie Louie	Medium LP	Time	Style	garage/surf
Album title	Prime Cut			Recorded	mid 60s
Label	Sanders Recordings		Cat.nr. G-1001	Released	mid 60s
-	Excerpt of the accompanying text: "It is definitely 60s vintage, probably mid 60s judging by the titles. The vinyl is fairly thick, characteristic of LPs produced at that point in time. The jacket is plain white with green print. The reverse is blank. Group members are listed on the jacket: Rick Godknecht - lead; Paul Halpern - rhythm; John Boddington - bass; and Al Kraemer - drums. Title of the LP is "PRIME CUT". Tracks are "Baja", "Stoked", "Pipeline", "Louie, Louie", "Fun, Fun, Fun", "Walk, Don't Run", "The Things We Said Today", "Please Please Me", "Surfer's Stomp", "Was It A Lie", "Mrs. Brown", "This Boy", and "Anne". As you might expect from the titles, there is a mix of vocals and instrumentals. It is a great sounding LP, it has that great "amateur" sound that we all remember from teen dances back in the day.

+	Frontman of the Wailers. Killed in car accident 1967. He first introduced the infamous line 'OK, let's give it to 'em right now' and changed Louie Louie from a calypso into a rock 'n' roll song. There is an interesting 45 single out (Eticant Records, P.O.Box 682, Tacoma 1, Washington; cat.# ET-86; using the Etiquette logo) which has 'Rosalie' by Rockin' Robin and the Wailers on the A-side and an interview from Bandstand of June 11th, 1959 with them on the flipside. The liner notes say: "Rockin' Robin Roberts was born in 1940. A native New Yorker he came to the Pacific Northwest as a child with his folks and settled in Tacoma. He started his crooning career with Little Bill and the Blue Notes, but the Wailers quickly stole him away as a featured vocalist. Perhaps his most significant contribution to rock and roll came when he scored a copy of Richard Berry's 'Louie Louie' in a Tacoma thrift store. The Wailers covered it and achieved regional success - a couple years later the Kingsmen covered the Wailers version and hit the motherlode. In the mid 60's Robin moved to California to teach, but was unfortunately killed in a flaming car crash on December 22, 1967. Eticant Records presents this never before released version of 'Rosalie' with the full approval of the Roberts' estate. All rights are Reserved. © 1994".

Song title	Louie Louie	Medium 45	Time 2:48	Style garage
Album title				Recorded 1965
Label	Audiodisc Acetate	Cat.nr. none		Released 2000
+	Officially released in 2000 on the vinyl album "The Sanctions/Jim And The Lords - Then Came The Electric Prunes" (Heartbeat HB65, CD version Heartbeat HBCD65). The Sanctions changed their name into Jim and The Lords, and later group members Jim Lowe (rhythm guitar, vocals; nôt the '56 'Green Door' Jim Lowe), Ken Williams (lead guitar), Mark Tulin (bass, organ) and drummer Mike 'Quint' Weakley started The Electric Prunes. The 12 tracks on the Audiodisc acetate are "Boys", "Long Tall Sally", "Moon Dog", "Somethin Got A Hold On Me", "Money", "Love Potion Number 9", "Jack The Ripper", "New Orleans", "Whad' I Say" (sic), "Chicago", "You Can Help Yourself" & "Louie Louie". Recorded by Russ Bottomley on March 27, 1965. The 4 'Jim And The Lords'-songs were also acetates originally: "Little (Li'l) Olive" - later rerecorded by The Electric Prunes - , "I'm Free", "I'm Down" & "Too Many People". These were recorded on 29 september 1965. This 'Louie Louie' has slightly altered lyrics (probably because they wrote down their lyrics from a Kingsmen record and couldn't make much sense out of some lines) and Jim Lowe even reproduces Jack Ely's singing error.

+	Dramatically different from the other Sonics' version. This were actually Gerry Roslie and a Seattle group called The Invaders. According to Buck Ormsby the owner of Bomp! Records, Greg Shaw, more or less conned Gerry into recording the album with the promise that if Gerry didn't like it, it would not be released. Gerry didn't like it, but it was issued anyway, which soured Gerry on the whole music thing and he went back to being a recluse.
